11. If the new mayor could accomplish only one thing, what do you think that should be?
Open-ended Responses on P.7

Next are some other issues that the mayor and city council will have to address. Each of these issues is difficult and requires several things to be done. But the city can't do everything at once, so the question is what should have a higher priority.

12. On the issue of homelessness, if you had to choose, which approach should have the higher priority for city government resources:

41	Moving the tents out of parks and public areas and moving their occupants into temporary shelters
54	Developing permanent housing and mental health services for people experiencing homelessness
5	No Opinion

13. There has been a proposed amendment to the city charter dealing with homelessness. If approved, this amendment would direct 12% of the city government general fund budget to homelessness and human services for five years. It would ease regulations for new housing and require the city to develop services and 2000 housing units within one year. Once those services and housing units were in place, it would direct the city to remove encampments from parks and public spaces, moving the people into the new housing units.

   If such a proposal were on the ballot, how would you be likely to vote?

26	Definitely in favor
34	Probably in favor	60% FAVOR
13	Probably Opposed	30% OPPOSED
16	Definitely Opposes

    54 Hiring more officers and providing more training

    38 Taking money out of the police budget to give to programs and community organizations to address the root causes of crime

    8 No Opinion

16. With regard to downtown, which of these statements comes closest to your opinion:

    62 The city should direct significant time and resources to restoring and revitalizing downtown

    27 Downtown can take care of itself. City government should spend its time and money on other priorities.
